

NEW STAGE Theatre

Conversation & Signature Cocktail
with Tennessee Williams Scholar

T. K. Lee

Wednesday, October 26 | 6:30 p.m.

ABOUT T. K. Lee

T.K. Lee's work has appeared in national and international publications and anthologies. His work crosses genres to include prize-winning plays (Loose Hog; Paper Thin, the latter of which was named the 2020 Eudora Welty New Play Series Fellow), award-winning poetry (To Square a Circle; Scapegoat) as well as critically acclaimed short fiction ("Awake," Faulkner Award - Best Story). Most recently, his play Bob and the Tree, about painter Walter Anderson, received a coveted Literary Artist Fellowship from the Mississippi Arts Commission. This October, Lee returns to the Eudora Welty Symposium with his second poetry collection Scapegoat—his first collection To Square a Circle debuted there in 2018 and was nominated for the Mississippi Institute for Arts and Letters poetry prize that same year. Praise for both collections speak to Lee's "uncanny wit; impeccable sense of pacing and tone; [and for] bringing a dynamic new voice to southern poetry." He currently serves on faculty for Mississippi University for Women's two nationally recognized MFA programs: Creative Writing and Theatre Education.

NEW STAGE Theatre

Conversation & Signature Cocktail
with Tennessee Williams Scholar

T. K. Lee

Wednesday, October 26 | 6:30 p.m.

ABOUT T. K. Lee

T.K. Lee's work has appeared in national and international publications and anthologies. His work crosses genres to include prize-winning plays (Loose Hog; Paper Thin, the latter of which was named the 2020 Eudora Welty New Play Series Fellow), award-winning poetry (To Square a Circle; Scapegoat) as well as critically acclaimed short fiction ("Awake," Faulkner Award - Best Story). Most recently, his play Bob and the Tree, about painter Walter Anderson, received a coveted Literary Artist Fellowship from the Mississippi Arts Commission. This October, Lee returns to the Eudora Welty Symposium with his second poetry collection Scapegoat—his first collection To Square a Circle debuted there in 2018 and was nominated for the Mississippi Institute for Arts and Letters poetry prize that same year. Praise for both collections speak to Lee's "uncanny wit; impeccable sense of pacing and tone; [and for] bringing a dynamic new voice to southern poetry." He currently serves on faculty for Mississippi University for Women's two nationally recognized MFA programs: Creative Writing and Theatre Education.

JOIN US FOR

CONVERSATIONS & SIGNATURE COCKTAIL

WITH TENNESSEE WILLIAMS SCHOLAR
T.K. LEE

NEW STAGE
Theatre

WEDNESDAY,
OCTOBER 26

6:30 PM
HEWES ROOM

ADMISSION IS FREE

THE Class Menagerie